From the Chair...

Dear Friends,

I hope you and your loved ones have been able to remain healthy and hopeful during these unprecedented times.

Now, more than ever, we have seen the critical need for safe, accessible public spaces for both our physical and mental wellbeing. Montgomery Parks’ staff have been working diligently to maintain our world class systems of parks, trails, gardens, and facilities. Our staff can’t wait to welcome you back to all of our facilities, but your safety is our utmost priority. We are working closely with county health officials to open facilities and restore park amenities once it is safe to do so. In this guide, you’ll find a variety of activities we have planned for this fall, and we hope to continue to add offerings.

You can stay informed regarding Montgomery Parks’ operating status, classes, programs and events, by visiting www.MontgomeryParks.org. You can also receive up to date information by signing up for the Montgomery Parks E-Newsletter at www.montgomeryparks.org/newsletter and following @MontgomeryParks on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram or Nextdoor.

Fall Children’s Programs Special Note

We look forward to welcoming you back for our fall programs both online and in person. Special cleaning measures are in place to provide a safe environment for everyone. For indoor activities, group size will be adjusted, and tables will be spaced according to current CDC guidelines. In order to seat guests at tables comfortably, we have changed the registration process so you may register your family members or close friends to be seated together at a table for four or eight (depending on the program). As we need to be mindful of the maximum group size, we suggest limiting adult supervision to one adult accompanying a child. We are sorry, walk-ins will not be accepted so everyone can keep a safe physical distance. Please contact Lynn.Richard@montgomeryparks.org if you have questions or suggestions on how we can meet your needs this fall.

Racial Equity Through Urban Greening & Agriculture

Duron Chavis, Urban Farmer, Educator and Changemaker
Our food system works for some in our nation but fails too many people of color, a problem that has only been exacerbated by the coronavirus pandemic. In this lecture, Duron offers a vision of a healthy and just food system. Sharing the importance of applying an equity lens to our current system, he will diagnose the problems and challenges, identify areas ready for change, and determine ways that we can work together to build a better and more fair system for everyone. Duron will share from his personal experience working in urban agriculture and local food systems as he helps define what it means to build a racially equitable food system—from field to farm to fork—and lay out the necessary steps toward achieving that goal.

About Duron Chavis
Duron Chavis started his career in community advocacy working with the Black History Museum and Cultural Center of VA. While there he founded the highly acclaimed Happily Natural Day festival, a weekend long experience that focuses on cultural awareness, health, wellness and social change. In 2009 Duron launched the Richmond Noir Market, a Saturday pop-up farmer’s market targeting low-income communities located in what the USDA has designated as food deserts in Richmond, VA. In 2012 he developed McDonough Community Garden and began transforming green spaces throughout the Richmond Region into urban gardens, farms, orchards, and vineyards. He served as one of 40 community facilitators for dialogues on concentrated poverty throughout the Richmond Region on behalf of Virginia Center for Inclusive Communities, which paved the way for the development of the city of Richmond’s Office of Community Wealth Building. He served on both the Food Policy Task Force as well as Anti-Poverty Taskforce for the City of Richmond and participated as a member of the inaugural Citizen’s Advisory Board for the Office of Community Wealth Building. Presently Chavis is engaged in coordinating innovative and dynamic initiatives around the topics of urban agriculture and local food systems in a culturally relevant way.

Tai Chi at Brookside Gardens

The repetitive patterns (Forms) emphasize slow, flowing motions and controlled movements. Brookside Gardens School of Botanical Art & Illustration

Mastering The Art of Light & Shadow with Watercolor

This course will be taught online using Zoom, a free online application. Students will need access to a computer that has a built-in camera or a smart phone. The instructor will use a combination of live demonstrations and short pre-recorded videos during this online workshop to demonstrate techniques and review concepts. Students will be able to work on their assignment during the week between each session. During each three-hour session, students will have the opportunity to ask questions and submit their artwork via email or share it live during the class for review by the instructor.

Instructor: Heeyoung Kim

Transforming a humble flower into a dramatic artwork starts from the choice of an angle that creates dramatic contrast, intricate perspective, and the flowing light that captures a viewer’s eye. In this workshop, Heeyoung will share her methods of observing and analyzing the specimen in order to maximize the interplay of light and shadow. She will share composition techniques that help develop quick drawing skills that eliminate unnecessary repetition while maximizing detail and accuracy. Dark colors are often challenging to achieve as they become muddy looking or uneven when too many layers are applied. Students will delight in how quickly they’ll be able to achieve these rich dark colors and velvety textures with a few simple preparations.

Level: Intermediate to advanced
Prerequisite: Intermediate courses in botanical art & illustration
